Dear Sir:

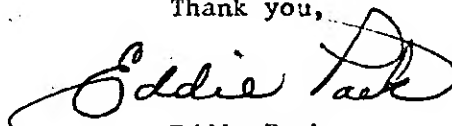

We have discovered a new development in the field of science that we call Extrasensory Optics, that when perfected fully will make most surveillance equipment obsolete. Our experiment started in 1956, and with the exception of some correspondence with Dr. Rhine at Duke University, is only known to those who took part.

From what we read our achievements are somewhat ahead of the success of the U.S.S.R.

If you are not interested, and have no referral that you can give us, with your permission, we would like to sell the technique to Canada, Israel, or to England.

If you are interested, please have someone contact me with the proper identification for the time and place, at your convenience.

Thank you,

Eddie Pack
